(Hillsboro Fire Marshal Achieves State Certification)

Hillsboro Fire Marshal John Rinier has been certified by the Oregon State Fire Marshal's Office as an Oregon Fire Marshal. The award was presented Wednesday morning to Fire Marshal Rinier by Supervising State Fire Marshal David Jones at the Hillsboro Civic Center. The Oregon Office of the State Fire Marshal certifies fire inspectors following voluntary completion of a training regimen, achieving technical expertise, and gaining the necessary experience on the job. In addition, the candidates must complete Task Books attesting they have successfully completed the specified activities. The Oregon Fire Marshal certificate recognizes outstanding merit and accomplishment demonstrating the competencies identified for Fire Marshal within the State of Oregon.

Fire Marshal Rinier is a member of the National Fire Protection Association, International Code Council, Oregon Fire Marshal Association, International Association of Arson Investigators, National Fire Sprinkler Association, and is involved in code development through the Oregon Fire Code Committee. As the Fire Marshal, he manages the Fire Prevention Division. The Fire Prevention Division consists of seven Fire Inspectors who provide coordinated delivery of fire and life safety services that include Code Enforcement and Fire Investigation
